Stop or hold fast	1 knock or stroke
Raise	2 knocks or strokes
Lower	3 " "
Men about to enter cage	4 " "
Distress signal	repeated short knocks

and the manager of any mine shall add to the foregoing such additional signals not inconsistent therewith as may in his opinion be necessary and shall cause copies of the complete code of signals to be posted in the winding house and at the top and bottom of the shaft and at all entrances thereto in such languages as may be in use among the persons employed in the mine. The Warden may also issue orders with regard to the use of special signals in special cases.

Every person employed in a mine where a code of signals has been posted shall make himself acquainted with the system of signals in use in such mine, and it shall be incumbent on the management to see that their employees understand the signals.

33. The provisions of the preceding rule with the necessary alteration of terms shall also apply to all inclines or planes above or below ground unless the Warden grants exemption in writing or unless it is herein otherwise provided.

34. All hauling or hoisting machinery and appliances employed in shafts exceeding 150 feet in depth or on inclines or planes with a total lift of more than 100 feet vertically shall before being put into service be approved of by the Warden, and no appliances except such as are of a pattern approved by the Warden shall be used for raising or lowering persons or materials in any shaft or on any incline.

35. The drum of every machine used for lowering or raising persons or materials shall be fitted with such appliances as in the opinion of the Warden will prevent the rope slipping off the drum.

36. Should it be so required by the Warden there shall be provided in addition to any mark on the rope or chain of any hoisting or hauling appliance an indicator of a pattern approved by the Warden whereby persons controlling the operation of hoisting or lowering may know the position of the load or cage on the incline or in the shaft.

37. Every windlass worked by manual power shall be provided with a brake capable of sustaining twice the full load and shall have attached to the rope marks whereby those working the windlass may know the position of the load in the shaft or incline.

38. Should it be so required by the Warden a clear view shall be kept for the driver of any hauling or hoisting appliance between his station and the shaft at the surface brace or the brow of an incline.

39. Every cage shall be fitted with special and suitable appliances to prevent its sudden fall down a shaft, and also to prevent its coming into contact with the head gear. Before any such cage is first used it shall be tested in the presence of an Inspector, and it shall not be used unless and until he gives a certificate in writing that it is fitted with such appliances as aforesaid and is in fit working order.

40. Spring catches or automatic or self-acting doors or tumblers of a suitable kind shall be affixed to the skids or guides below the head-gear of every shaft in which a cage is used, to prevent the fall of such cage down the shaft when detached from the rope or chain by over-winding or otherwise.

41. A single linked chain shall not be used for lowering or raising persons in any working shaft or any incline except in the case of short coupling chains attached to the cage or load, and in such case two single linked chains of uniform size shall be used to each coupling.

42. When or where other approved means of descent or ascent in shafts are not available a sling approved by an Inspector shall be provided and used for raising or lowering miners or other persons.

43. Wherever ordered by the Warden such overhead cover shall be provided in shafts at the bottom, at any point, or on any cage—as he may direct.

44. A ladder used permanently for the ascent or descent of persons shall not be fixed in a vertical or overhanging position, except in shafts used exclusively for pumping; but every such ladder shall be inclined at the most convenient angle which the space in which the ladder is fixed allows; and every ladder, whether vertical, overhanging or inclined, shall have substantial platforms at intervals of not more than 30 feet, and a suitable fixture for a hand grip shall be placed above such ladder for the use of persons ascending or descending. In no case shall new vertical or overhanging ladders be constructed, either in substitution for old ones or otherwise.

45. All inclined planes, whether self-acting or mechanically or electrically operated, shall be provided with such safety appliances as may be approved or ordered by the Warden, and the railways shall be laid and kept true to gauge, level, line or curvature, and shall be provided with such points, switches, and crossings, as may in the opinion of the Warden be necessary.

46. Every underground gallery or inclined plane whereon persons travel, self-acting or otherwise, shall be provided with sufficient man-holes as places of refuge at intervals of not more than 60 feet and also, if it exceeds 100 feet in length, appliances for signalling as prescribed by rules 32 and 33 shall be provided.

47. All hoisting or hauling appliances shall be fitted with brakes of a pattern approved by the Warden and such brakes shall be capable of arresting the motive power when fully on in the lowest gear, and when the load is unbalanced with the full load also on. And in the case of self-acting inclines or planes the brakes shall be capable of sustaining twice the greatest load that may be imposed. All such brakes shall be maintained in thoroughly efficient working order and shall be tested by the manager or by any person duly authorized by him at least once a month, and a record of such tests shall be kept. An Inspector may order any brake to be tested at any time if in his opinion the record of tests by the management is not up to date or if in his opinion any brake is working in a defective manner.

48. All steel or metallic ropes used for hoisting or hauling shall on the makers' certificate possess when new a factor of safety of 8. All such ropes shall be tested by the management at intervals of not more than three months with a load equal to twice their heaviest working strain, and a record of such tests is to be kept by the management available for reference by an Inspector. An Inspector may order the removal of any such rope that shows damage, subject to its failure to stand the prescribed test, which he may cause to be made at any time.

49. All ladders, hoisting or hauling appliances and ropes or couplings and fittings thereof shall be kept in good condition and repair to the satisfaction of the Warden or an Inspector.

50. Every man-hole and space for a place of refuge shall be kept clear and unobstructed and no person shall place in or near the same anything which may prevent free access thereto.

51. Should it be so required by the Warden any fly-wheel and all exposed and dangerous parts of any machinery used in or about or auxiliary to a mine shall be kept securely fenced or shielded.

52. Gunpowder or other explosive substance shall only be stored or used in or on a mine as hereunder provided—that is to say:

- (a) It shall not be stored on the surface of or adjacent to the mine unless in such magazine and in such quantities as may in writing be approved by an Inspector, and in accordance with any law which may be in force with reference to explosives;
- (b) It shall not be stored in the mine in any quantity exceeding what would be required for use during six working days for the purpose of the mine and, whilst so stored, it shall be kept in a drive or chamber at least thirty feet from any travelling road;

- (c) It shall not, without the written permission of the Warden, be taken for use into the workings of the mine except in quantities actually required during the shift, not exceeding sixteen pounds of gunpowder or ten pounds of nitro-compounds or nitro-glycerine compounds, in workings where drilling machines are used, and not exceeding eight pounds of gunpowder or five pounds of nitro-glycerine compounds in any other working, nor in any case except in securely covered canisters or cases ;
- (d) A workman appointed as a shot firer shall not have in use at one time in any one place more than one of such cases or canisters ;
- (e) Detonators for blasting shall be kept stored on the surface of the ground in a covered box placed in a separate magazine from other explosives ;
- (f) Not more than one hundred detonators shall be kept for service underground in any mine at one time, and these shall be kept in a covered box in a drive or chamber set apart for the purpose, and shall be only taken out in such quantities as are required for immediate use. Detonators shall not, on any pretence whatsoever, be placed near any travelling road, pass or working face in any mine ;
- (g) No person shall enter with a naked light a magazine or any excavation in a mine where gunpowder or other explosive substance is stored ;
- (h) No iron or steel prickers shall be used in blasting, and no iron or steel tool shall be used in tamping or ramming, and no iron or steel pricker or tamping bar shall be taken into any mine, and no explosive shall be forcibly pressed into a hole of insufficient size ;
- (i) The owner of any mine shall provide copper prickers ;
- (j) A charge which has missed fire may be drawn by a copper pricker but shall not be visited until three hours have elapsed from the time of lighting the fuse of such charge, or until half an hour has elapsed from firing when electrical firing apparatus is used. In no case shall an iron or steel drill be used for the purpose of drawing or drilling out such a charge, nor shall any charge be drawn where nitro compounds or nitro-glycerine compounds or detonators have been used. The shot firer shall report all misfires to the management and shall make known all misfires and their position to the men on shift and to those coming on shift ;
- (k) No person who has not been appointed as a shot firer by the management and registered in a book to be kept for that purpose shall be allowed to charge a hole with any explosive or to fire any charge, or to carry any explosive in or into a mine and no person under the age of twenty-one shall be so appointed. Sufficient warning shall be given to enable all persons employed in the workings to reach a place of safety before any fuse is ignited, and the shot firer shall satisfy himself that this notice has been given ;

- (l) No drill-hole shall be bored within a distance of three feet directly below or within one and a half feet in any other direction from the site of a previously exploded charge of any nitro compound or nitro-glycerine compound, or from the site of such a charge that has missed fire : and no drill-hole shall be bored in any remaining portion of a hole in which a charge of nitro compound or nitro-glycerine compound has been previously exploded ;
- (m) Working shall not be resumed until thirty minutes have elapsed from the explosion of any charge. And in the case of heavy blasting such measures as the Warden may direct shall be taken for the purpose of rendering the fumes innocuous or of dissipating them ;
- (n) Such measures as the Senior Warden may direct shall be taken to protect magazines or explosive stores from explosion by lightning ;
- (o) No explosives of any kind shall be kept in or on any mine for sale without the written permission of the Senior Warden.

53. No shaft or underground working place which has been out of use shall be brought into use or the use thereof resumed until effectual measures have been taken for the dissipation of all noxious gases therefrom.

54. (i) Every mine shall be kept so ventilated that the health of persons working in the shafts, winzes, levels and underground working places thereof and using the roads to and from such working places shall not be injured ; and in every shaft, where in the opinion of the Warden the ventilation is not sufficient, some mechanical or other appliance adapted to ensure adequate ventilation shall be provided.

(ii) In the case of a single shaft, it shall be divided by a partition into two compartments, whereof one shall be used as an up-cast shaft and the other as a down-cast shaft.

(iii) In the case of two or more shafts connected underground, one of such shafts shall be used as an up-cast shaft.

(iv) Every reasonable precaution shall be taken to see that the air travels freely to all working faces before ascending the up-cast shaft.

55. Where, in the opinion of an Inspector, the natural strata are not safe, every working or pumping shaft shall be securely cased, lined or otherwise made secure, for which purpose an ample supply of suitable timber shall be kept on the ground ready for immediate use.

56. Every drive and every excavation of any kind in connection with the working of a mine shall be securely protected and made safe for persons employed therein, and a light shall be kept burning in the chamber of every level whilst any person is working there.

57. Whenever there is any indication, whether from infiltration of water or otherwise, of the close proximity of old workings, all persons employed in the workings shall immediately come to the surface and no person shall re-enter the workings with a naked light until every reasonable precaution shall have been taken to ensure the absence of an explosive mixture of gas and air.

58. In approaching workings likely to contain a dangerous accumulation of water or slimes, bore-holes or other similar operations shall be kept in advance of the face to such a distance as may be ordered by an Inspector, as a precaution against an inrush of water or slime; and no drive, gallery or other excavation shall be made within a dangerous distance of any such accumulation.

59. In any mine where the Warden may so direct, a stretcher and ambulance, splints, bandages and other first-aid appliances shall be kept ready to hand and such sanitary appliances and arrangements as may be ordered by the Warden shall be provided and used.

60. All water channels, pipe lines, spill-ways, dams, tailings' dams, sluices or other hydraulic appliances on or auxiliary to any mine shall be kept in repair as required by an Inspector.

61. Abandoned workings shall be filled in in accordance with such instructions as the Warden may issue.

62. At any mine where the Warden may so direct, a book shall be kept wherein the manager shall certify at intervals of not more than seven days that he has personally examined the mine, the buildings, winding machinery, ropes and other appliances used in or about the mine and has found them to be in good order, or as the case may be; and shall specify any repairs or alterations which in his opinion are required to ensure greater safety to the persons employed in or about such mine, and shall so soon as such repairs or alterations have been executed enter a record thereof in the said book.

63. The Senior Warden may issue instructions in writing for the control of any dredging operations or the disposal of tailings from the same and such instructions shall be adhered to.

64. No dredging operations shall be carried on

65. No effluent water from any mining area or mining operation shall contain more than 800 grains of solid matter per gallon or such other number of grains of solid matter per gallon as the Resident may, in writing, direct.

66. Any person offending against the provisions of any of these rules shall be liable on conviction to a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars and for a second or subsequent offence to a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars.

67. In the foregoing rules the terms "Manager" and "Management" shall include the person or persons who are vested with the control of any mine, and any mine-owner who is not himself managing his own mine shall inform the Inspector in writing of the appointment of any person or persons as soon as any appointment or change is made.

In view of the fact that a portion of the land required has been built upon, the Board considered that they had no alternative but to agree to a re-adjustment of the boundaries.

The Chairman was requested to write to the Secretary to Resident pointing out the exposed position of the building, the blank walls of which will face Pudu Road, and to request that the Railway Department be called upon to construct a wall to screen the view of these buildings from the public road. The site chosen for the quarters of the menial staff was deemed unsatisfactory.

The Board further expressed an opinion that the Railway Department should submit plans of proposed buildings to the Board, so that such encroachments as above, and the nature and position of the buildings to be erected, might be discussed.
